New England's Finest

In the mill towns and the big cities, down in the ship-filled harbors, back in the granite hills, everywhere you'll find thousands of sturdy, strapping New Englanders smoking famous old Mayo's Cut Plug tobacco.

It's the same rich, sweet, satisfying Mayo's that their fathers and grandfathers smoked, and they get the same healthful satisfaction out of it all year 'round. Mayo's has plenty of "body" and taste, yet smokes cool and pleasant—it's man's tobacco.

Mayo's Cut Plug

Mayo's is ripe, mellow Kentucky Burley, aged up to five years to bring out the richness and sweetness. It has been made in the same factory, by the same people, for over 10 years. That's why Mayo's quality is always the same—"always good."

Just give Mayo's a week's trial, and you'll agree with us. Sold everywhere in 5c packages.

PANAMA AND THE CANAL IN PICTURE AND PROSE

This book first takes you in through the front door of Panama—through the islands along the way, describing the natives in picture and prose; thence you are taken to the isthmus and are shown the wonders of that unknown country—the people, their strange customs and more strange costumes; their religions and politics, their peculiar characteristics; how they live—how certain natives eat lizards and hugly enjoy them—how they fish and hunt; their sports and pastimes; marketing bananas. Shooting alligators, burning charcoal. ALL there is to know about these queer people, and MORE than has ever been told of the great waterway from the "whys and wherefores" of its inception to the "ins and outs" of its construction—and all through to its completion—all a beautiful human interest story that will charm the reader to the very last page.

IT IS A RARE TREAT FOR EVERYBODY

The Boston American

presents this book to its readers on the popular plan explained in the Panama Certificate printed daily in these columns.

Cut Out the Panama Certificate and present it with five others of consecutive dates at any of the distributing points named therein, with the expense amount of 98 cents for the $1 volume, or 18 cents for the $2 volume (which covers the items of the cost of packing, express from the factory, checking, clerk hire and other necessary EXPENSE items), and receive your choice of these books:

LARGE VOLUME
 is printed from new type, large and clear, splendidly bound, with initial panel showing the famous Celebra Cut in natural colors, and filled with magnificent illustrations, many of which are from water color studies in artistic colorings.

SMALL VOLUME contains practically the same reading matter; is bound in blue vellum cloth, but contains only 100 photographic reproductions, and the color plates are omitted. Willis J. Abbot, America's most versatile writer, is the author of both books.

THE NARRATIVE OF
MARY O'NEILL
(FIRST PART)
MY GIRLHOOD

Continued

The narrative of Mary O'Neill, a young girl, is a story of her life and the challenges she faces. It is a story of love, loss, and the struggle for survival. The story is told in a simple, direct style, with a focus on the emotional aspects of the events. The first part of the story, 'My Girlhood', covers the years from her birth to her marriage. It is a story of a girl who grows up in a poor, working-class family, and who must learn to cope with the hardships of life. The story is a testament to the strength and resilience of the human spirit, and it is a story that will resonate with readers of all ages.

Mr. Curley Is the Choice of the Voters—He Should Be Given a Fair Chance to Make Good

The people of Boston have elected James M. Curley Mayor. The AMERICAN did not support Curley, and regrets the decision at the polls.

But the AMERICAN submits to the will of the voters. This is the spirit of a government by the people in which this newspaper has profound faith.

The confidence of a majority of the people of a great city like Boston OUGHT TO SOBER Curley, make him grateful and consecrate him to real service for the people. If it should so affect him, then this election will reveal anew the wonderful instinct of the people voting in large numbers.

The AMERICAN will co-operate with Mr. Curley in every thing which this newspaper believes is calculated to promote the welfare of the city.

It will stand behind Curley whenever he appears to be RIGHT. On the other hand, if he interprets this election to be a popular endorsement of some of his FAST CONDUCT he will find that the fight has only just begun.

If the people have made a mistake in electing him they will be quick to rectify it at the first opportunity.

There are some things which Mr. Curley CANNOT DO and continue to succeed.

He cannot use his office as an asset of a personal machine. He cannot make appointments with reference to the capabilities of the appointees. He cannot be vindictive toward those who have opposed him for the good of the city.

Mr. Curley is an intelligent man. Probably he will not wish to do any of these untoward things. Probably he will wish to make the best Mayor Boston ever had. The AMERICAN sincerely hopes that this will prove to be his ambition.

Let us all assume that the judgment of the people was righteous altogether, and so let us all be ready to make every well-intended effort of the new Mayor successful.

Make an End to the Pursuit of Harry Thaw

It is more than a coincidence that the pursuit of Harry Thaw and a clandestine effort to secure the repeal of the Mann White Slave law have gone hand in hand. The same men who have been clamoring for Thaw's imprisonment have been secretly endeavoring to take from the federal statute books a law whose enforcement has thus far resulted in nothing but good.

Now that Thaw is in the hands of the United States courts his case is beyond the reach of the men who have sought by every means at their command to keep him in jail. It would be a scandal if he were further pursued.

That Thaw is an object of the special hatred of a certain coterie of vicious men of wealth there can be no doubt. That all efforts to interfere with the vices of rich white slavers meet with amply financed opposition is daily apparent.

In the renewed attempt to repeal the Mann White Slave law this is glaringly apparent. The case of the New Jersey man who left his wife and ran away to Alabama with a sixteen-year old child has been taken up by the white slavers as a test. They want this seducer exempted from the Mann Act on the ground that it is directed only at commercialized vice.

Newspapers pretending to respectability are eagerly pleading for immunity for rich men who violate the Mann law as an incident to their amusement. One New York evening newspaper made a pathetic appeal to spare all save commercial white slavers from the just punishment provided for seduction by the Mann law.

Of course no individuals dare come out into the open and ask for the repeal of a law punishing seduction, any more than the individuals who are behind the fight against Thaw dare show themselves in the open.

But in the Thaw case, as well as in the raid on the Mann law, the fight is continually kept up under cover.

It is time that this sort of thing end. Thaw has been pursued long enough. The attacks on the Mann law have been too frequent. Decency demands that they stop, and if they do not stop it will be the duty of the public officials who are daily besought to keep Thaw in jail or to bring up the Mann law for repeal to make public the names of the men who are so much alarmed at any interference with their vices.

In-Shoots

The man who has been at the polls for the past few years has been at the polls for the past few years.

Political figures occasionally get together when they do not want to.

No matter how heroic a man may be, he would never have much about the criticism of the crowd.

The outlier is soon forgotten, but the stickler can make a lot of trouble whether he lands any plums or not.

There are occasions when even a modest piece of soap represents the high cost of living.

Never mind the friends you used to have. They are all gone now.

When a young girl expresses her intention to be a minister all that bachelors in the neighborhood but better take to the woods.

The wife married man does not see the point of his wife's weeping—she might guess right.

When some fellows sit their trousers the whole world seems to fit.

People who usually cry have minds.

The man who has a good job frequently makes the best salary holder.

Life is cheap; making good is fairly expensive.

Men who consider the bread they have never stood in one in earnest.

Nothing is in this, "high society" is always on the job.

IS EDGAR DEAF?

Emilio Castelar, a Republic Builder

By REV. THOMAS B. GREGORY

THIS fall of the Spanish Republic, forty years ago, marked the close of the political career of Emilio Castelar, the greatest man that Spain has produced since Cervantes. Born at old Cadix in 1852, Castelar, by the sheer force of genius, worked his way up to the very summit of popularity among the Spanish Progressives, and, joining the revolutionists in 1868, did heroic service in the cause of the liberty to which he was so ardently devoted. The revolutionists exalted him to death, but he escaped to France.

The Republic lasted eleven months, from the elevation of Práxedes, 1873, to January 3, 1874. The membership of the Senate and Congress were largely discredited. In sentiment, and in his angelic eloquence of Castelar, not that alone, that kept the Republic alive for the few months of its existence.

Minister of Foreign Affairs, and later on President of the Republic, the new constitution, proclaimed July, 1878, was largely the work of Castelar. It provided for the complete separation of Church and State, absolute freedom of religion, the abolition of the nobility, universal suffrage and equality of taxation.

"Can anyone doubt the effect which the emergence of women into politics will have, eventually, on politics? Eventually, for the sake of their houses independent of the devious game of men, will rule them at first. But when they have become used to politics, we shall find that we have harnessed an army of woman in politics. And we shall find that we shall have an element impatient of restraint, straining at the rules of procedure, cynical of excuse for inaction, not always by any means, on the side of progress, making every mistake possible to ignorance and self-conceit, but transforming our politics from a vicious end to an efficient means—from a cancer into an organ."

The Relentless Thaw Hoodoo

The history of the remarkable blight of the "Thaw Hoodoo," which up to date has brought violent death, suicide, matrimonial troubles, business disaster and personal disgrace to fifty of the leading actors in the famous Thaw case, is one of the amazing articles to be printed in the great magazine section of next Sunday's Boston AMERICAN.

In the same section will be found the following:

Oriental Sketches By the Famous Bakst:

A fascinating page, giving some of the newest and best examples of the flowing lines and gorgeous combinations of color which make this artist's work so popular.

Whimsical Mrs. Gouraud's Latest Caprice:

How the much-married American millionaire, who is always surprising us with her eccentricities, now plans to try her luck with a Russian "Prince" for a husband.

Is Your Cat or Dog Rheumatic?

Many animals suffer from rheumatism just as human beings do and a famous veterinary surgeon has devised a new way of curing them by means of electric baths.

Trying to Stop the "Voodoo" Human Sacrifices in Cuba:

How it is hoped that the arrest of two voodoo priests after the weird ceremonies which followed the murder of a little white girl will put an end to this revolting superstition.

Are All Blondes "Trouble Makers"?

Surprising evidence offered to prove that fair-haired women are to blame for most of the unhappiness which wrecks homes and divorces husbands and wives.

How Barber Shops Can Be Made Safe and Sanitary:

Science's discovery that many diseases of the skin and scalp are caught at the barber's and the hairdresser's emphasizes the need of stringent legislation for the prevention of unsanitary practices which are making us bald and are ruining our complexion.

How Saturn's Rings Affect Our Weather:

Professor Turner puts forward the interesting new theory that it is whirling masses of meteorites that make sunspots and fill the universe with storm-producing electricity.

How the Turkey is Losing Its White Meat:

The bird's legs are getting bigger and tougher and its breast muscles, where the best meat is found, smaller, because we won't let it fly.

Near-Spring Furs and Near-Nothing Lingerie:

A review of the newest in fashions by Lady Duff Gordon, the famous "Lucile" of London.

How to Word Your Invitations and Answers:

Helpful advice about some of the points of etiquette by Mrs. Frank Learned, the author of "The Etiquette of New York Today."

Why You Really Do Burn With Fever:

An interesting explanation of what causes sudden changes in the body's temperature and why you often have a severe chill just before a high fever begins to consume your tissues.

Famine Warning in Overcrowding

From EDWIN MARKHAM

HENRY QUINCE'S brilliant book, "On Board the Good Ship Earth," surveys humanity in the large. This commentary on Oriental overcrowding has a warning for our continent. Mr. Quince says: "The poverty of the masses in the Orient is full of awful interest to the careful student and of a sort of fearful hope. It shows us the dread condition which comes from overpopulation—which is a matter for fear."

"Those who say that such poverty as we Chinese see suffer from it in no manner caused by overpopulation are right. We have in these United States still more than twenty acres for the sustenance of every person. In Japan there is but a third of an acre. Some Japanese, however, are supported by trade and manufactures and draw their support from other sources than those of Japan."

"That in the Shanghai province of China, Doctor King found lands supporting 2,440 people of a strictly rural population to the square mile, or 240 to a farmstead farm. The island of Chongming, with 279 square miles, has 2,700 people to the square mile, and only one large tract of any part of whose ground could draw sustenance from outside the island. It is safe to say therefore, that until our population doubles once or twice such poverty as we have must be laid to other causes than that of the increase of population."

"Even China and Japan may by intensive governmental energy bring into use lands which the very earth is individual struggle for existence has not been able to utilize, and thus allow an increase of population of a hundred millions."

"But so discovery of science can be as fast as we can, take from the soil what is not in it, use small agriculture to make food of anything but plants fed on the land in the soil. So that poverty is sure to meet if the present birth rate of three men keeps up. They are not made poor by their own greed, but by their birth rate."

"It might be possible to make some use of about this as to the Japanese, for they have saved of the gains phenomena of industrial history, and exportation. But in the United States, by of China, and especially in such form as the Chinese plan, where from three to four thousand people live on each square mile, the law of the
